Our Annual February Sale of Fancy and Odd Furniture.

TO-DAY we inaugurate our Fourth Annual February Furniture Sale, at which time we shall offer a representative collection of high-grade goods from the foremost manufacturers, at prices ranging from

25% to 50% Below
Actual Values.

And in view of the great advances made in the cost of the manufacture of all classes of goods, the values represented at this sale are far superior to those we have previously offered.

The variety is larger and more comprehensive than any we have ever assembled.

Immediately upon the close of our September sale, plans were put on foot looking to ward making the February Sale of this year the most important and interesting of any, both in the quality of the goods and the prices asked for them.

To this end our buyer spent several weeks in the late fall visiting the leading factories in the North, East, West, and South—factories whose names stand for all that is best in furniture—securing their productions. As a result several carloads are already here and more are coming. And, besides large quantities of goods gathered especially for this sale, we shall add the one-of-a-kind pieces of our own splendid stock at reduced prices. And notwithstanding the goods are offered at a quarter to a half less than the usual prices, the construction and finish are unsurpassed and thoroughly reliable in every particular. They were secured at first hands, right at the factories, by our representative, each piece having been examined carefully and accepted because of its intrinsic worth.

A particular feature of this sale is the large proportion of one-of-a-kind Pieces and Suites—there being in but few instances two just alike—thus affording exclusiveness in choice. And by going direct to the factories and making our own selections we not only secured goods at the lowest prices, but also secured various lots, representing all the makers had of this or that particular kind, together with sample pieces, at very decisive price-concessions.

This sale includes Furniture for all parts of the house except the kitchen—Dressers, Chiffoniers, Toilet Tables, Cheval Glasses, Washstands, Beds, Dining and Bed Room Chairs, Oak Rockers, Mahogany Rockers, Gold and Mahogany Parlor Cabinets, Gilt Chairs, Vernis Martin Tables, Clocks, Weathered Oak Chairs, Weathered Oak Rockers, Weathered Oak Settees, Weathered Oak Desks, Golden Oak Desks, Leather Chairs, Morris Chairs, Parlor Suites, China Closets, Buffets, Sideboards, Dining Tables, Couches, Davenport, Sofas, Office Desks, Office Tables, Office Chairs, Bookcases, &c., &c.

It affords an opportunity to housekeepers to add pretty and odd pieces of furniture to the home at a small expenditure, and enables proprietors of hotels and boarding houses to secure what may be needed in the furniture line, in the latest effects, at a great saving.

These goods will be conveniently displayed on our sixth floor, with both regular and sale prices plainly marked, and may be distinguished from our regular stock by having a yellow price tag attached. The increased space occupied by our Furniture Department affords us better facilities to properly display these goods, and also affords better opportunities for your inspection.

A detailed list will appear in Monday's Star and Times and Tuesday's Post and Herald. The goods are now ready for your examination and selection.

The sale will continue throughout the month.

Working Boys' Home.

DEBUTANTES TO TAKE PART

At the "Valentine Tea" which is to follow, a bevy of the season's debutantes will assist the ladies in charge of this particular feature of the entertainment.

At the opening performance of grand opera this evening at the Belasco the boxholders will include the German Ambassador and Baroness von Sternburg, the Minister from Nicaragua, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lee, Mrs. Postelwhite, Mr. and Mrs. Edson Bradley, and Mr. F. L. Hudekoper.

Mrs. Knox, wife of Senator Knox, has cards out for a tea Tuesday, February 12, at 6 o'clock, to meet her daughter-in-law, the bride of Mr. Reed Knox, whose marriage took place last week.

Mrs. George L. Gillespie will be at home to-morrow afternoon for the first time this season, and again on Tuesday, February 12. No cards have been issued for these days, when Mrs. Gillespie will be pleased to welcome all her friends to her new home, 1331 New Hampshire avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Shonts will close their season of hospitality this evening with a small cotillion, when they will entertain the friends of their daughters.

Mrs. Shonts and the Misses Shonts will probably pass the Lenten season at one of the Florida resorts and go to Europe for the spring and summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont went to New York yesterday for a few days' visit and to attend the opera this evening.

The engagement is announced of Miss Adelaide Kenyon, of Chicago, and Capt. Charles Albert McAllister, of the United States Revenue Cutter Service, and their marriage is to take place in the spring. Miss Kenyon has spent several seasons in Washington and has a host of friends here. She met Capt. McAllister in this city, where he has been attached to the Revenue Cutter Service Bureau of the Treasury Department as engineer-in-chief of the service.

Mrs. Marshall Field, Jr., who is now residing permanently in England, arrived in New York Saturday to spend just one week in her native land, where she has been called by business.

PEOPLE TO BLAME FOR EVILS

Rev. Mr. Copp Declares Remedies Lie with Those Who Vote.

In Sermon He Pictures Agents of Sin and Suggests Methods by Which They May Be Abolished.

Rev. Zed H. Copp, assistant pastor of Bethany Chapel, in a sermon last night laid at the door of the people the blame for existing evils in Washington, declaring that "evil rules by the consent of the governed." In this connection he drew a composite picture of the body politic, likening it to an individual, the left side of whose face was full of determination and insistence for its demands, while the right side—representing righteousness—was passive, and registered its protest by making a wry face and winking the other eye.

"The Capital City, as the head of the nation, is the observed of all observers throughout the country and the entire world," declared Rev. Mr. Copp. "Congress is simply a national law factory, being made by the people and enacting the laws demanded by public sentiment—none better and, usually, none very much worse. The President, the Board of Commissioners, and the police administer the laws, after they are made, according to the sentiment of the people in the community. So the blame, both for the enactment and the enforcement of the law, must be placed on the people themselves."

The minister mentioned three signs. First, he devoted attention to the beer and whiskey signs that adorn the streets. "They are a disgrace to our city," he declared. "What must the thousands of visitors to Washington think of the Christian sentiment of Washington, of the spiritual life of our thousands of church members, who permit these signs of sin to adorn our fair city?"

As a remedy, he suggested an amendment to the license law, compelling their removal, and declared it could be secured very readily.

Next Rev. Mr. Copp denounced in unmeasured terms the exhibition and sale of bad books. He asserted emphatically that he had stood on a street corner within the past week and counted in one window a score of books that should never be put into the hands of the young. This "sign," he declared, was the chief probationary officer of the juvenile court, and has had a wide experience in work for the young. Any number of instances, he said, had come to his personal attention where boys and girls had been started on careers of crime and vice through reading bad books. He declared that the sale of books could be controlled as easily as the automobiles on our streets.

The third "sign" was the "Bewery of Washington." This, Rev. Mr. Copp explained, applied to the five-cent theaters and the penny slot machines with moving pictures, as well as to the throngs of young boys and girls who wander aimlessly up and down the streets of Washington after dark. The proposed curfew ordinance was suggested as a remedy.

"It would be infinitely better," he shouted, "to bring up our children in Puritanical purity than in Roman licentiousness." He told of instances where, in his work with the juvenile court, it had been necessary to suppress suggestive pictures in the slot-machine establishments, which are frequented largely by young and impressionable boys. He suggested roof gardens and other proper places to succeed these places.

Mr. Copp also discussed "doors of damnation." The first, he said, is the theater as it exists to-day. "It is a kindergarten of vice and crime," declared the minister, "owing to the degradation of the drama." He would remedy the evil by throwing open the public schools in the evenings, and providing stereoscopic lectures on interesting topics for the people. This plan, he said, has been adopted in New York and is so popular that the crowds cannot be accommodated.

The second, he declared, is the saloon. He would establish an asylum for inebriates after abolishing the saloon, and regenerate its victims.

Next Sunday night he will take the other side of the question and discuss "Doors of salvation and signs of deliverance in Washington."

A Norfolk Suit for the Boy.

Many mothers prefer to fashion the small son's suits, for in this way much laid away material may be used, as well as father's cast-offs. The Norfolk style is favorite with every one, and an excellent pattern is pictured here. Two box plaits appear in back and front, beneath which the belt slides to fasten in front. Pockets are to be found in the front of the coat at the side, as well as three in the trousers. For the medium size, two and one-quarter yards of 54-inch goods are needed.

A pattern of this Norfolk suit—sizes, six to fourteen years—can be obtained by inclosing 10 cents in stamps and addressing Pattern Department, The Washington Herald, 724 Fifteenth street northwest, giving number—2278—and street wanted.

JOKER IN FOOD LAW

People's Lobby Denounces Tawney's Amendment.

WOULD DEFEAT PURPOSE OF ACT

Secretary of Agriculture Prohibited from Making Use of State Food Inspection Officials—Five Millions
Would Otherwise Be Required to Accomplish Execution of the Law.

The manifold perplexities that surround the execution of the pure-food law, involving as it does the inspection of thousands of staple articles that go into households from one end of the country to the other, have not, in the opinion of the friends of the law, been reduced by the action of the House last week in placing restrictions on the powers of the Secretary of Agriculture in enforcing the law.

As reported, the agricultural appropriation bill, at the end of the section relating to the Bureau of Chemistry, contained an appropriation of $500,000 to carry into effect the provisions of the pure-food act. There was added to this section, on motion of Representative Tawney, of Minnesota, the following amendment: "Provided, That no part of this sum shall be used for the payment of compensation or expenses of any officer or other person employed by any State, county, or municipal government."

This amendment, as it stands, is vigorously objected to by the People's Lobby. That organization declares that the amendment not only shatters the plan already adopted by the Department of Agriculture, but, if enacted into law, would greatly interfere with the efficient and economical execution of the pure-food law. Such a provision, it is urged, would forbid the payment to any State, county, or municipal official of money for expert opinion or for services or for expenses incurred in appearing before a court. Should the proviso remain in the appropriation bill, the Secretary of Agriculture could not request any such officer to give expert advice or render services unless he did so without remuneration, paying his own expenses. The amendment would provide even for temporary employment of the best trained talent of the country in the enforcement of the law.

Years to Organize.
It would take the government two or three years to assemble and organize a force of experts to carry out the provisions of the pure-food act and insure its enforcement with a degree of efficiency comparable to an organization wherein Federal and State officials co-operate. Furthermore, such independent enforcement by the national government would cost many times that provided in the plan of co-operation proposed by the Department of Agriculture. Five millions a year, in lieu of the $500,000 appropriated, is the estimate of Representative Mann.

In the fight over the pure-food bill last session the "special interests" opposing the measure did everything to create a feeling of antagonism between State officials and the advocates of a Federal law. By this means it was hoped to divide the forces of reform and bring about a conflict of opinion regarding several real issues involved in the consideration of the measure. This failed. As was manifest at the convention of the Association of State and National Food and Dairy Commissioners, held at Hartford last summer, the pure-food law has received unanimous approval from the State officers. It would now appear that the same thing is being attempted in a different way.

A statement given out by the People's Lobby last night contained the following: "The amendment fathered by Representative Tawney is a particularly good example of the 'joker.' Inasmuch as Mr. Tawney has never been known as an exponent of State's rights, his presence in the House about Federal interference in State affairs are surprising, to say the least. The Minnesota Representative has himself established a precedent in this matter. In the urgent deficiency bill, reported by the Committee on Appropriations, of which Mr. Tawney is chairman, there was appropriated $250,000 to enforce the pure-food law from January 1 to July 1, the beginning of the fiscal year. There was no string to this appropriation. Mr. Tawney did not attempt to dictate to the Department of Agriculture the personnel of the staff charged with the enforcement of the law; he did not tie the hands of the Secretary of Agriculture."

Cripples the Law.
"But when the agricultural appropriation bill, considered, not by his committee, but by the Committee on Agriculture, came before the House, Mr. Tawney sought to cripple the enforcement of the law. He was supported in his contention by Representative Crumpacker, of Indiana; Representative Fitzgerald, of New York, and Representative Sullivan, of Massachusetts."

"On the other hand, Representative Mann, of Illinois, the floor manager of the pure-food bill last session, fought the amendment vigorously, asserting that the whole theory of the pure-food law would be reversed by the amendment. Protest was also made by Representative Wadsworth, of New York, chairman of the Committee on Agriculture, and by Mr. Cooke, of New York, another member of that committee, who said: "The plan proposed by the department seemed to the entire committee to be an entirely feasible and workable plan, notwithstanding the objection made by the gentlemen here."

"The agricultural appropriation bill, in which is incorporated Mr. Tawney's 'joker,' is now in the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry of the Senate."

Crest Point of the Flood.
The Weather Bureau last night received reports which indicated that the Mississippi River, at Memphis, is stationary at a height of 40.3 feet, which is probably the crest stage of the present flood. Other stages, at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, at points below Memphis were: Helena, 49.3; a rise of 0.5 foot; Greenville, 45.0; a rise of 0.4 foot; Vicksburg, 47.9; a rise of 0.3 foot; Natchez, 46.5; a rise of 0.4 foot, and New Orleans, 15.5; a rise of 0.1 foot in twenty-four hours.

ELMENDORF LECTURES TO-DAY.

Opens Spring Series at National with Travel Talk on Ireland.

Ireland will be brought to Washington this afternoon, pictorially and descriptively, when Dwight Elmendorf, the traveler and lecturer, opens his spring series here at the National Theater. His travel talk this afternoon, illustrated with telephotographs and motion pictures taken and colored entirely by himself, leads the audience from Belfast, on the north coast of the Emerald Isle, to Killarney, at the south. The Glens Causeway, Derry, Baniskillen, Lough Erne, Devilish Isle (with its famous Round Tower), Dublin, the Hill of Tara, Bray, Kilkree, Cork, Blarney Castle, Glenkariffe, and Kenmore are all visited. The material for the lecture was all gathered by Mr. Elmendorf last summer. The lecture begins at 4:30 o'clock.

WILL CULTIVATE REPUBLICS

Columbia University to Send Representative to America.

Dr. Shepherd Will Make Tour for Purpose of Bringing About Closer Educational Relations.

John Barrett, the new Director of the International Bureau of American Republics, in accordance with the new and enlarged programme of the bureau to develop closer relations with Latin America on the intellectual and educational, as well as the commercial and material side, announced yesterday, by authority of Dr. Nicholas M. Butler, president of Columbia University, that Dr. William R. Shepherd, professor of history in Columbia University, will make a trip, as a representative of Columbia University, to the leading South American commercial and political capitals during the summer of 1907.

The object of Dr. Shepherd's journey will be to cultivate personal relations with the leading statesmen, men of letters, and men of affairs in South America, and to carry to them knowledge of the educational resources and opportunities of American colleges and universities, with a view of bringing about closer relationship between the Latin-American republics and the United States. While absent, Dr. Shepherd will also collect material for the course of lectures on South America which he is to deliver in Cooper Union, New York City, during the spring of 1908, as the Hewitt lecturer of Columbia University.

President Roosevelt, Secretary Root, and the Latin-American diplomats are much interested in Dr. Shepherd's trip. It is hoped it will reciprocally result in the sending of South American men of letters to the United States. The Director of the bureau is in correspondence with Latin-American officials and universities to perfect the arrangements for Dr. Shepherd's visit.

CITY'S PROBATIONERS REPORT.

Address Made by Judge De Lacy to 165 Wards.

The seventh general meeting of the probation class of the Juvenile Court was held yesterday, during which 165 wards made their reports to probation officers Zed H. Copp and Gertrude B. Darwin. An address was made by Judge William De Lacy on "Good Citizenship." He read parts of an address recently made by President Roosevelt regarding the American boy and girl. Miss Elizabeth Madden, of Rochester, also made a brief speech, while Deputy Marshal Hoy and Baruff Hickey distributed booklets of instruction to the probationers. Miss Kathryn Howells led the song service.

FROM WOMAN'S POINT OF VIEW.

We are warned by the medical authorities against careless habits in this, the most trying season we have had in years. The sewers in cities where those whose business compels them to spend the working hours in the heart of the danger zone are the ones who particularly need a word or two of caution. Nature is permitted to do something for the human beings who have not wholly escaped her influence. It seems, for figures prove that the bulk of sickness is in crowded, dirty cities, and dirty they all are even with the greatest care.

Trolley cars may be a convenience, but they are not unmix blessings, say what you will. Few cars to walk when cars are standing halting distance from our idea of thrift precludes the possibility of a habit of walking any part of the distance when we have paid for the entire trip. So we herd in cars with the discomfort of sickening heat pouring out under the seats and the real danger of vitiated air. The matter of ventilation is still under discussion, and because of the general antipathy to cold, fresh air in the ventilating windows of cars are out of commission.

Every human being needs at least two hours of fresh air to counteract the effects of the other twenty-two. It is not enough to ventilate our living and working rooms, though that goes a long way toward maintaining health. If our employment calls for much sitting we need the counteracting effects of a walk, with the consequent supply of fresh air and sunshine, and if the distance between home and any destination is too great, it is better to walk without regard to dress or petty economy. Believe me, it is no real economy to get the full value of our rare-health is the gain by the sacrifice of a portion of it.

It is a blessing to be able to sleep outside the city walls, to breathe air that is reasonably pure for a few hours of the twenty-four. To live off the car line is another blessing, for exercise is compulsory under such circumstances. We have contracted two very bad habits—the overheating of rooms and carelessness in dressing according to weather. Disease germs find ready lodgment in unprotected and weakened bodies, and women are the targets for onslaught. If we wore warmer clothing and lived in cooler rooms we would be many times better in health and temper, able to compete with the men who have better ideas on such matters.

I once lived in an apartment which offered a perfect riddle in the way of ventilation. Open windows meant dangerous draughts, yet it was obvious that we must have a reasonable supply of fresh air. One day I saw a ventilator in the window of a business office that boasted every comfort, and I knew that my riddle was solved. I ordered three of the things, despite my knowledge that I would have to sacrifice somewhere to make up the expense, and I got my money's worth the first day and night they were in use. I secured fresh air in three rooms, without a draught, yet in such fashion as to ventilate the whole house, and its benefits were almost instantaneous. I presume that any carpenter can make similar articles, but mine are patented, therefore expensive, but are in perfect condition after five years of steady use. BETTY BRADEX.
